Problem:

- Now a days many software, apps and products require users to read a long document detailing the terms and conditions. Most users simply skip this part and go ahead and sign the agreement. Sometimes, there are suspicious or unfair terms added which the user doesn't necessarily agree on.

Target:

- Most people do not read the "Terms & Conditions" when downloading a software or an app. This product would be beneficial to anyone downloading a software or app.

Goals:

- Terms & Conditions scanner.
- Able to read through the whole document and find all irregularities.

Countermeasure Proposal:

- We want to make an app that scans through the terms & conditions which will alert and protect the user of any dubious terms and conditions. Along with this, we would like to make it possible to share the information with the people the user selects. We believe that with the help of an app that tracks it for the user, it would benefit a lot of women and their relationships.

Plan:

- Text scanner

Follow up:

- Might not detect every suspicious term & condition.
